Walterman Bagaly Tried for Drawing a Revolver.

EVIDENCE AS TO SANITY

He Will Be Taken Back to St Elizabeth.

MEDICAL TESTIMONY

Walterman Bagaly, who is figuring in divorce proceedings instituted by his wife, who is an Italian countess, as printed in yesterday's Star, was not sent to the insane asylum yesterday afternoon, for the reason that Prosecuting Attorney Mullowny concluded to reopen the case and let the court take the responsibility of sending Lim across the river. The proceedings bearing on the divorce case, and that is did not want it ended without the judge passing upon it.

Bagaly, as stated yesterday, was arrested because he drew a pistol on Lawyer Henry Wiswell, who had taken testimony for the countess in the divorce proceedings.

When the case was called in Judge Miller's court this morning the prisoner's counsel, Lawyer J. J. Johnson, said he was very much surprised last evening when he heard that the case had been reopened. Yesterday, he said, he had his witnesses in resterday, he said, he had his witnesses in court and was ready to prove the mental incapacity of his client. Bagaly, he said, was willing to return to the asylum, and all preparations for sending him there were made.

Judge Miller said that he was personally acquainted with some of the persons, and for this and other reasons he desired that Judge Kimball should hear the case.

Lawyer Johnson, his client and others interested in the case, went before Judge Kimball, where counsel made a statement Kimball, where counsel made a statement of the case. The defendant, said counsel was once condemned by a jury and sent across to the asylum. He was released from the asylum, and recently he found himself in the midst of domestic difficulties, and Tuesday he was arrested on the charge of concealed weapons. Counsel explained that he wanted his client sent over to the asylum, but he did not want him to go there with a charge pending against him.

Mr. Mullowny said that the charge had been made and he did not care to ignore the complaint made by a citizen. If the complainant will withdraw the charge then the defendant might be returned to the asylum.

"What have you to say about this?" Lawyer Wiswell was asked.

"In my opinion," answered the complainant, "it was a case of a drunken man with a pistol."

"Then you don't want to withdraw the charge?"
"No. sir."

"No, sir." In the Asylum.

Dr. Stack of St. Elizabeth's Asylum testifled that the defendant had been in the asylum for several months, and was discharged as cured. He was suffering from acute mental trouble and his physical health was bad. For several weeks he was critically ill.

Dr. Percy Hickling, one of the police suror. Percy Hickling, one of the police surgeons, gave evidence. He found the defendant in a nervous and excited condition, and there were traces of alcoholism. Witness thought the insanity was not the result of drink, but that drink followed one of these mental attacks. So far as his conduct Tuesday was concerned, his mind seemed to be a blank.

Witness thought that the man was in condition this morning to appreciate his position.

Dr. J. Ramsey Nevitt, another police surgeon, gave similar testimony, saying he thought the man was of unsound mind.

Dr. Stack was recalled, and he said that he saw the defendant Sunday, and he was then in a normal condition. He had heard the statements of the other physicians, and, judging from his (witness') experience, he judged that alcohol caused the trouble. Counsel asked witness if a man who had been in the habit of using narcotics would not do almost anything to get a stimulant, and witness replied that he would.

Judge Kimball said he thought the evidence made the man's alleged insanity apdence made the man's alleged insanity ar dence made the man's alleged insanity appear very doubtful. He was sane Sunday, two days before his arrest, and is in his normal condition today.

Lawyer Johnson said he had Drs. Bayne and Marbury, from Providence Hospital, yesterday, and if the court wanted them the case might go over.

Goes to Trial.

Counsel for the defendant finally agreed to go to trial, and a plea of not guilty was

William Nelson, saloon keeper at 416 and D streets, testified that the defendant came into his saloon Tuesday, and soon after ward Lawyer Wiswell appeared. Bagaly drank a glass of beer. He seemed very much excited, and was talking about comething that had been printed in the newspapers about him, and he was going to whip somebody. If he could not whip them he said he had something else, and pulled out a pistol. Witness thought that he did not point the pistol at any particular individual. ward Lawyer Wiswell appeared. Bagaly Lawyer Wiswell was next called to the stand, and he related the scene in Nelson's Somebody to Die.

He said that he went in Mr. Nelson' lunch room, and while in there the defendant came up to him and said: "Some body has got to die today, and it is not Campbell Carrington, either."

Witness thought he had been drinking, and he advised him to put away the pistol, which he did, and later, he said, he had Bagaly arrested as a matter of mercy.

W. C. McCreery, in whose house Bagaly has lived, told the court that his boarder came home very late Tuesday night. He was very much excited.

Bagaly asked him what time he could get a train for Gaithersburg, where, it is said, his wife is living, and he told him he could not go until morning. Bagaly said he was going there, and he did not know whether he would come back alive or not. he would come back alive or not.

The court heard counsel's statement, and finally concluded to take his personal bonds, with the understanding that he be taken to the asylum without any delay.
His counsel promised to send him there as soon as the necessary papers can be perhaps before. "At present," said he, "we have a paper currency, which answers every purpose of local exchange and commerce. But there is no gold or silver behind it, and neither of the metals are in use, except at Panama, where it has become a custom to carry on transactions in silver. Practically, however, we have nothing but paper. About $5,009,000 of gold is produced from Colombian mines every year, but as the balance of trade is against us, this product is speedof trade is against us, this product is speedily drawn out of the country in payment for goods bought abroad. It is needless, therefore, to attempt a gold basis until we can reverse the balance of trade, so that our gold will remain at home as a basis for a gold circulation. There is every indication that this will be brought about by the increased exports of coffee. The trade is increasing enormously, and promises to offset the loss of gold from imports.

Colombian Currency Satisfactory.

"Our paper currency is very satisfactory," continued Gen. Rengifo. "Although we have just passed through a rebellion, the some of the strongest South American countries. For instance, the Argentine Republic has paper money exactly the same as ours, yet it takes $4 of Argentine money to make $1 of the United States' money, while it takes only $2.50 of Colombian paper money to make an American dollar. "The Colombian money is made of convenient denominations, with fractional currency down to the 20-cent 'shinplaster' and small coins of nickel. Altogether, therefore, Colombia suffers no hardship from having neither metals, gold nor silver, in her currency. The depreciation of the paper is natural, following the recent rebellion, for the paper currency of the United States was at a considerable discount following the civil war."

THE DALECARLIA RESERVOIR.

Operations During June, as Describ-ed by Col. Elliot.

Col. Elliot has made a report to the chief of engineers of operations during June for improving the Dalecarlia receiving reservoir. The major portion of the work, which was carried on by an average force of 175 men, was the excavation of the channel from the "north connection" into the reserveir, and deepening the reservoir at its head. Good progress was made on both branches of the work, as well as in the construction of the dam across the mouth of Little Falls branch. This dam is complete, except a short portion near the westerly end where a driveway was left for the hauling of stone after the completion of the excavation at the head of the reservoir. the excavation at the head of the reservoir. The work of paving the open channels was continued, as was also the work of trimming, solling and seeding the slopes of those channels, of making gutters on the hillsides above them to prevent the erosion of the banks by storms, of removing trees and brush from the part of the valley of Mill creek above its dam that will be flooded by the dam, and of hauling and burning the large quantity of brush from burning the large quantity of brush from the trees removed from the sites of the American Shipbuilders Are Display ing a Lively Interest in Orien-

It is the belief among officials here that Japan will use a large parts of the war inlemnity which China is to buy her for the purpose of materially increasing her navy. The financial resources of Japan will be very abundant during the coming year, as she will receive over $100,000,000 before next May, and thereafter about $20,000,000 a year for five years. This will be drawn entirely from China, and will be in addition to Japan's usual receipts from cus toms and internal revenue. The customs receipts promise to belivery large, as the new treaties which Japan has effected with leading nations will bring about a readjustment of tariff duffes, "so that much greater returns will be realized.

American Shipbuilders Alert.

It is owing to this assurance of an ample treasury that American shipbuilding firms have turned their attention toward Japan. The authorities there have already indicated their purpose of using a considerable part of the funds on new ships. A Japanese naval expert visited here some time since, and went to the various American yards. Mr. Kurino, the minister, also visited the Cramp yards. It was due to the minister's reports es to the excellence of American shipbuilding that the naval expert was sent from Japen. As a result of the talks, there seemed little doubt that one or more large ships would be ordered by paper is worth much more than that of Japan. The government was certainly dis posed that way, and it is believed that if delay has occurred inclosing the contract it must be due to the conditions imposed by the American builders.

Western Yards Will Get a Share.

The shipyards at San Francisco are attracting quite as much attention from Japenese naval authorities as those in the east. It is said that the cruiser San Francisco, built by the Union iron works at San Francisco, attracted marked attention at the recent naval review at Kiel, and gave further evidence to naval experts of the ability of the Pacific corst shipbuilders. In view of these facts, it is the opinion of officials here that when Japan begins disbursing the moneys she receives from China, part of it will go into the shipyards at San Francisco and the east.

Mr. Cleveland Was Out.

There was a caller at the White House this morning who was not admitted. She is Mrs. Eliza Davis, or Gray, and her mission here from Toledo was to see the President because she says her husband was abducted by her son. Her husband's name was Davis, she said, and he was a soldier in the late war. Believing him to be dead, she says, she married a Mr. Gray and also made application for a pension. The result of her application, she says, was the liscovery that her first husband, Mr. Davis.

discovery that her first husband, Mr. Davis, is still living, and she wants now to ascertain his whereabouts.

In October, 1893, she was here on a similar mission, and had to be sent home. After her visit to the White House today she called upon Sanitary Officer Frank at police headquarters and once more related to him her story of her two husbands.

She said she was sent here by the Grand Army, and when she reached the White House, she said, the President was out of town, but she saw Mrs. Cleveland, and was told by her to call on Mr. Frank. The unfortunate woman is seventy-nine years old fortunate woman is seventy-nine years old and Sanitary Officer Frank sent her home.

ALL KINDS OF MONEY

Register Tillman to Send an Exhibit to Atlanta.

CURIOUS OLD BONDS AND NOTES

England's Check for Damages Done by the Alabama.

AN INTERESTING ARRAY

Register J. Fount Tillman of the United States treasury will send from his bureau to the Atlanta exposition one of the most interesting and attractive exhibits to be furnished for that occasion by the United States government. The exhibit-then incomplete in some of its detailsattracted widespread attention at the Coumbian exposition in Chicago. Since then many new features have been added, until now it forms the most complete collection of all issues of money of this government in existence. It is not only valuable to those interested in the financial history of this country, but it serves as well to illustrate the great and rapid advance made in the art of engraving. The first attempts to engrave notes were crude and rough, while the later efforts are the beautiful works of art with which every one is familiar.

The exhibit contains specimens of treas-ery issues of every form, made on account of the various loans, since the foundation of the various loans, since the darranged of the government, grouped and arranged in chronological order. Added to this is a collection of color of the various loans, since the foundation of the government, grouped and arranged in chronological order. Added to this is a full and well-pre-erved collection of colonial money, which is valuable as well as interesting. The government was compelled to purchase this collection by piecemeal from various persons who were holding the money as souvenirs, and a good price was paid for the necessary pieces to complete the collection. One of the features of the exhibit is the continental money. All the issues of the thirteen original states are represented, embracing all dates, denominations and conditions of payment. The exhibit includes continental money, colonial money, specimens of the issues of the late confederate states, both currency and bonds, United States bonds, United States currency, national bank notes, bills of broken wild cat banks in active operation before the civil war, and the check which England made out in favor of this country for depredations committed by the steamer Alabama on the commerce of the United States.

Early Bond Issues.

The earliest issue of bonds, then known as "loan office certificates," as shown in the exhibit, was made in 1776 on account of the first loan this government negotiated with France. Then follow in order of date specimens of bonds issued to re-plenish the treasury from time to time during the progress of the revolutionary and civil wars down to the present time, the last loan being that of 1805, redeemable in during the progress of the revolutionary and civil wars down to the present time, the last loan being that of 1805, redeemable in 1825. As shown by the specimens, the earliest coupon bends were issued in 1842. It was then that this government adopted the two forms of bonds, now so popular, the coupon and registered. The specimens of the bonds, notes, fractional currency and other evidences of debt under all acts of Congress issued on account of the heavy loans entailed by the civil war form a fine and historic collection of the reminders of those stirring times.

The "loan office certificates" are probably as interesting as any other feature of this collectioon. Many have the interest figured out on the edge of the note, showing that the holders had puzzled their heads to find out what Uncle Sam owed them. On one of the colonial notes, issued in 1774, are inscribed the words: "To counterfeit is death." Some severe penalty was necessary, for any ordinary school boy with a quill pen could have reproduced the note exactly, so crude and rough was its execution. Among the bonds are found a great number of District of Columbia notes of indebtedness, issued for all sorts of purposes. The bonds of the large 4 per cent loan of the late war times have a place in the exhibit, and they take up quite a good deal of space. They are both coupon and registered bonds, the highest denomination of the former being $1,000, and that of the latter being $50,000. The $50,000 registered bond is the largest ever issued by this government. No coupon bond is issued with a higher denomination than $1,000. The last loan, that of 1895-1925, is a 4 per cent one, and the bonds are beautiful work: of art. They are made in the shape of a United States flag, with the coupons taking the place of the stripes, and one of these bonds takes up the entire space on a single leaf of the exhibit.

The Alabama Check.

The Alabama Check. The check which England paid to this country on account of the Alabama claims a gold certificate, and is made out in the sum of $15,500,000. It was paid through the sum of $15,500,000. It was paid through Drexel, Morgan & Co., Morton, Bliss & Co. and Jay Cooke & Co., and is signed on the face by John Allison, register of the treasury, and F. E. Spinner, treasurer of the United States. On the back it is indorsed by many names, the most prominent of which are those of Edward Thornton, then the English minister to this country; Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State, and Wm. A. Richardson, Secretary of the Treasury. Richardson, Secretary of the Treasury. The collection is mounted on two separate columns, each seven feet high. Thirty-two frames are swung on hinges to these col-umns, and in these frames the notes are mounted. They are well arranged and are lettered and grouped in an artistic manner.

The daughter, in making final disposition of the estate, is requested to make the following bequests: $500 to the American Missionary, Association, and $100 to the Washington Humane Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and Animals. By a codicil, dated January 22, 1894, the bequest of $2,000 to Cornelius R. Wallace is reduced to $500, and the daughter is appointed a trustee to pay the amount to her brother in five annual installments of $100.

Lawyers' Troubles.

Thomas Walker and Thomas L. Jones, colored lawyers, met in Edward Lipscomb's office on F street two days ago and engaged in a difficulty over a case. The affair resulted in blows, and the participants were separated before any serious injury was done. Jones swore out a warrant for Walker, and the case was heard in the Police court this afternoon.

Judge Miller failed to find that the words in the case justified the blow, and a fine of $15 was imposed on Walker.

Johnnie Shea's Death.

An autopsy was held this morning on the body of "Johnnie" Shea, who died Wednesday evening. It was thought that there was a possibility that his death was caus ed by an accident or a blow last Christmas day, but the autopsy showed that there was no injury to the skull, and that death was no injury to the skull, and that death was from pyaemia and an injury to the brain, the latter of long standing, and presumably the result of the injuries the man suffered a couple of years ago by falling from a train in Pennsylvania. It was decided that an inquest was not necessary, and no further action will be taken in the Western Forest Reservations. The Secretary of the Interior has requested the Attorney General to direct the quested the Attorney General to direct the United States district attorneys in Oregon and California to proceed criminally against trespassers on the forest reservations of the United States. The principal trespassers in the western states are the sheep and cattle men, who drive their herds on to the government lands and crush down or burn the underbrush which holds back the melting snows of the spring, causing disastrous freshets.
